

Metropark

Say Good-Bye to Your Analog POTS Lines

The same phone line that Alexander Graham Bell had patented in 1876, might still be working in your business today. The Analog Line a.k.a POTS (Plain Old Telephone Service) has become a dinosaur and most businesses have already moved away from POTS. If you haven't, you really should consider options. Metropark has many solutions for you which will replace those ancient devices that require POTS and save your company a fortune!

NOT COOL!

-  Analog POTS is dying quickly but as it goes, the prices are sky-rocketing
-  All top phone companies are sunsetting or ending their Analog services now
-  Some non-carrier providers are replacing analog POTS with less than reliable analog faux solutions

Let Metropark show you how to replace your Analog devices with new world technologies.

Fax Machines, Alarm Lines, Credit Card Machines, Elevators, Doorphones, Gatephones, Entry Access phones, Modems, Paging, Overhead Ringers, Intercoms, Sprinklers, & others

